Blairmore Social Club

The cabinet of the Blairmore Social Club has held two arduous sessions this week for the purpose of drafting the syllabus for the winter. This work has now been completed, the programme for each evening being outlined, and the various parts distributed among the membership. It is earnestly hoped that the members and friends who will be interviewed in this connection within the next few days will respond heartily, and co-operate in the carrying out of the excellent and varied programme which has been prepared. Due regard has been paid to the principle of fairness in the division of labor, and if everyone does his or her part, the small amount of effort required will be found to be no burden, but rather a pleasure which is at the same time profitable. The various departments are well represented on the syllabus; and at every meeting vocal and instrumental music will add to the pleasure of the company.

Membership in the Club may be secured by the payment of $1.00 to the secretary-treasurer, Miss Walsh. Do it now!

Blairmore Council Meet

The mayor and full council attended last night's regular meeting.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes of last preceding meeting, a number of accounts and communications were dealt with.

It was decided to continue membership in the Union of Alberta Municipalities, and it is hoped to have a representative attend the annual convention to be held at Edmonton on November 8 and 9.

Beobe-Roscoe—That the salary for chief of police be increased by $10 per month, to take effect from October 1st.

Councillor Evans gave notice that at the next regular meeting he would ask the council to take steps towards numbering houses and stores on the streets and avenues of the town.

A very favorable report regarding the health of the town was received from the medical health officer.

The mayor informed the council that the necessary legal proceedings had been taken in the matter of Town vs. Joyce, and that the chief of police had been dispatched to Calgary to execute the orders of the council.

Huns Raid Atlantic Shipping

Newport, R.I., Oct. 9.—The wholesale raid on foreign shipping south of Nantucket tonight Sunday was the work of one submarine, according to reports of American naval officers. Rear-Admiral Albert Gleaves, commanding the torpedo boat destroyer flotilla which did such remarkably speedy rescue work, said tonight that reports of all his officers agreed that, to the best of their observation, one raider only was concerned. This boat presumably was the German U-53, which called at Newport Sunday afternoon to mail a letter to Ambassador Bernstorff and then put to sea without taking on an ounce of supplies, although she was 17 days from her base, according to the statement of her officers.

Admiral Gleaves said he could easily understand the positive statements of sailors of the torpedoed vessels that more than one submarine was concerned. The U-boat, he said, was very fast and appeared to have been handled cleverly. It was easy, he pointed out, for her to disappear on one side of a ship and show up unexpectedly at another spot. Doubtless, he believed, she had submerged and reappeared often enough to mislead any but a keen professional observer, and to create the impression that more than one sea terror was operating. This opinion would seem to be borne out by the statements of many of the refugees, that the submarine had more business on hand than she could take care of at once, and was obliged to request one steamer to wait her turn while another was being put out of commission.

Lieut-Commander Miller, of the destroyer Ericson, who witnessed the destruction of the Stephano, said he was positive that only one submarine was in the vicinity at the time.

New York, Oct. 11.—Nothing to indicate the presence of German submarines off United States coast, was observed by steamers which arrived here today, after voyages from east and south. There was no unusual activity on sea, the arrivals reported, nor were any intense warships sighted.

Blairmore Red Cross

On Thursday next, October 19th, a 10-cent tea and sale of home cooking will be held in the Central Union church, commencing at 7 p.m. Prof. Janot, pianist, will be in attendance and will read poems for 50 cents. In the evening he will lecture and show lantern slides. Refreshments will be served and a collection will be taken up at the lecture, proceeds to provide a bed in the Rangate hospital, which is to be Blairmore's contribution, in response to the following appeal from the honorary provincial secretary-treasurer:

"Dear Sir or Madam—The Canadian Red Cross Society has decided to equip a Convalescent Home for Canadians at St. Lawrence College, Rimouski. For this purpose some 70 beds at $20 each will be required, in addition to the 400 beds already subscribed but not used in previous hospitals equipped by the Society.

The Alberta provincial branch has undertaken to donate 100 of these beds as the share of the equipment of this home. Will your Society help with this gift, and to what extent? We suggest that you make an appeal to the public throughout your district for contributions to the fund. Many of our Alberta men will be admitted to and cared for in this home, and we suggest that you impress upon those to whom this appeal is made, that in giving money for this purpose they are providing for their own relatives and friends. The cost of installing a bed is $50, and beds thus paid for will be named after the donor. Societies and individuals wishing to subscribe to this fund are requested to communicate with the Provincial Office as soon as possible, in order that there may be no unnecessary delay in completing arrangements."

GERMAN ATROCITIES IN FRANCE

CHILDREN BRUTALLY TAKEN FROM THEIR PARENTS AND CONVEYED IN TRUCKS TO GERMANY, WHERE IT IS PRESUMED THEY WILL BE FORCED TO WORK FOR THEIR CAPTORS

The tearing of thousands of innocent boys and girls from their homes in France, and their conveyance to Germany, is a crime of the worst atrocities committed by the German troops in Belgium. The outrage was not committed yesterday. It occurred about Easter, but news from the occupied regions of France comes with more directness than anywhere else under German rule, and the French Government have been getting pains to bring out the facts before appealing to the world.

About 25,000 French women and girls and boys were forcibly taken from Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, three adjoining towns, torn from their families, placed in trains, and taken no one knows where.

Houses were entered in the night, and the selected victims were taken and hurried off. Many of the victims were young girls. For what purpose they were seized is not known. They were brutally torn from their mothers, who have already in many cases been bereft for ever of husbands and sons.

As news of the slavery policy of Germany at Lille and elsewhere is becoming more fully known in this city, and as proofs have now become available, the indignation of the public has been aroused to a high pitch.

People are realizing that Germany has deliberately signed her own decree of outlawry against civilized nations. In Paris now, one hears very little of the folly involved in attempts to bring the German people at the expense of the German Emperor.

Accounts of the horrors perpetrated at Lille and elsewhere show that German soldiers have gladly associated themselves as partners in the crime, and the French public are thoroughly with the eloquent protest that has been made by M. Briand's orders.

M. Briand has shown the gross illegality of the German action, and has appealed to neutral powers for justice and humanity.

He is able to claim that the French Government are in possession of satisfactory proofs of the accuracy of the allegations made against the Germans, and he invites neutral powers to independent verification of the charges committed.

One of the towns which is suffering most from this new form of German atrocity is Lille—sometimes known as the Maestricht of France, but a more beautiful Manchester.

The Bishop of Lille has addressed an eloquent protest to the German legation to the German general in command of the town, but protests of any kind are a waste of time when addressed to the German military authorities.

Their apparent motive for the present proceeding is a desire to compel the French civil population to engage in industrial work for the benefit of the German army or to assist its operations, either directly or indirectly.

On the day after the atrocious events which are described, the French woman, in a letter to the Lille, says:

Chinese On Ships

British Seamen Raise Question in the House of Commons

The president of the British Board of Trade, on being asked in the House of Commons whether he was aware that dissatisfaction was being caused among British seamen by the increasing employment of Chinese labor in British ships, and that British seamen, including 4,000 with the colors, believed that their economic position, both now and after the war, was being gravely prejudiced and imperiled by this development, and what action he proposed to take, replied:

"I am aware that some dissatisfaction has been caused among British seamen by the increasing employment of Chinese seamen in British ships, which is largely due to the present shortage of British seamen available for employment."

As regards the last part of the question, the president said that the point raised would receive serious consideration.

A Disadvantage
The Germans will be immensely hated after this war. They will be the pariahs of the world.

Already we see signs of German hatred everywhere. At a reception the other night the British guest of honor said to a man who had just been presented to her:

"You are a foreigner, you no?"

"From Berlin, ma'am," he answered.

The lady started at him through her loquacity.

"Dear me," she said, "couldn't you go back and come from somewhere else?"—Louisville Opinion.

The vigilance of the military authorities in Great Britain is becoming very exacting. A farmer, for example, was fined $500 for not having a lead of hay away from his farm to a place near by, without informing the military officer of the district.

"He's a promising author." "Yes, I've several of his books, and they're all overdone."

What the British Navy Has Done

The Herculean Task That Has Been Accomplished

Here is a list of the more important accomplishments of the British navy in the present war:

It has bottled up the German fleet in harbors. It has prevented what would have happened if the Germans had been able to use their powerful navy to attack the British coasts. Calais would be Prussian and Paris a tributary to Berlin.

It has kept the trade routes open, so that the Allies may obtain food and supplies. That does not appear on papers, but think what it means—all commerce raiders had to be swept from the ocean and kept off. One escapee some months ago, and the papers of the world were headlined with the news that the English ship had been destroyed by torpedoes. Finally, the waterways must daily be swept of mines.

It has kept the sea lanes open for the Allies. It has prevented the German navy from being able to use their powerful navy to attack the British coasts. Calais would be Prussian and Paris a tributary to Berlin.

Farmers Urged To Pay Said Liens Quickly

Conference at Calgary Suggests June 1, 1917, as Last Date for Payment

That western farmers who have given seed grain liens to the government should have not discharged their indebtedness, as they are given until June 30, 1917, to pay up, and after that date the holder of a mortgage on their property may call the lien and add the amount to the mortgage at the stated rate of interest, was the unanimous vote of a conference held under the auspices of the Calgary Board of Trade, to go into the whole matter of seed grain liens.

The Dominion Government was represented at the conference by W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Interior, and the Provincial Government by Premier A. L. Sifton. The United Farmers of Alberta were represented by President H. W. Wood, and there were also present representatives from other Alberta municipalities and boards of trade, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the mortgage and loan companies, and the banking interests.

During the winter of 1914-15, the Dominion Government advanced some $14,000,000 for seed grain and for hay, groceries and other supplies, and by the end of the winter lien notes, which were made a first charge upon the land or seed, amount, about $2,000,000 has been repaid.

It was represented that neglect to repay this indebtedness was injurious to the credit of the farmers generally, and that the Government, through the Farmers' Loan and Mortgage Board, should declare a moratorium on the liens.

Mr. Cory read a letter from Dr. Roche, Minister of the Interior, to a Winnipeg firm, in which he stated that January 1 next could be safely fixed as the date subsequent to which the department would not be bound by its registrations in respect to liens that are registered at the various land offices.

The latter also said that the department had for some time adopted the policy of releasing the liens on parcels of land than that on which the seedling was originally done, provided the liens were repaid.

Premier Sifton said that the Alberta Government was not bound by the liens, and that the department was co-operating in any way with the Dominion Government, and would pass legislation in this regard to the matter.

Resolutions embodying the sentiment of the meeting as stated were passed unanimously.

Stern Struggle in Australia

Premier Declares That if Voluntary System Fails There Must Be Compulsion

News reaches London of a stern struggle in Australia, between the Government and the farmers, over the question of compulsory conscription, finding voluntary service inadequate to fill the drafts promised for the front.

Mr. Lloyd George said in the House of Commons recently: "Splendid services have already been rendered by Australia, which has sent a large number of troops, and a man will be placed at the disposal of the Empire in order to obtain a victory."

The Times says: "The day has been when so broad a hint from the Government has been given, that the Government has been bitterly resented by any Dominion."

Today it is not resented. "Premier Hughes himself claims it is in some respects the most direct recognition yet accorded of what Australia has done."

The Premier also declares that if the voluntary system fails, there must be compulsion for Australia, but it is for Australia to judge."

Her Love-Potion
A young woman who thought she was loved by her husband, turned to a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter for a love-potion.

"Get a raw piece of beef, cut flat, about an inch thick. Slice an onion into rings, and rub the meat on both sides with it. Put on pepper and salt, and toast it on each side over a red coal fire. Drop on it three lumps of butter and sprigs of parsley, and get it to eat."

The young woman did so, and her husband loved her ever after.—London Tit-Bits.

Over Threefold Increase in Grain
The Canadian Board of Grain Commissioners reports that during the crop year of 1915-1916, ending August 31, 1916, the production of wheat, oats and barley were shipped from Port Arthur and Fort William, 325,000 bushels, as against 99,000 bushels in the previous twelve months.

In the crop year 1915-1916, 157,000 bushels of wheat were shipped from Canadian vessels and 167,800 bushels in American.

The first batch of "returned soldiers" is going to the land in Australia, to go on to Gypsland, Victoria.

SYSTEM OF TRANSPORTATION MARKETING OF WESTERN WHEAT FROM THE HARVEST FIELDS TO WORLD'S MARKET

Wheat is the Creative Force of the Communities that Prosper Between the Rockies and the Great Lakes, Nurturing Towns and Cities of the Western Provinces

(By R. Magill, M.A., Ph.D., Chief Commissioner of the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada in Water Magazine.)

When it is known where only a short time since the buffalo and the wild roamed at will. When wheat, with its roots in the prairie provinces, entered the same civilization. Wheat, placed in these provinces a population that is large, and a population that is growing.

Wheat has built thousands of miles of railway lines through the western wilderness. It has dotted the country with three thousand elevators. It is collected by these elevators from hundreds of thousands of farmers, and carried from there by branch lines to the transcontinental roads, and emptied into the great storage plants at the head of the lakes.

On its way from the farm to the storage plant, wheat is the object of a great system of federal administration, which carries out strict laws of transportation and inspection.

Wheat gives traffic to the railways, raw material to the mills, and business to the banks. It creates grain exchanges, nurtures towns and cities, and is the creative force of the communities that prosper between the Great Lakes and the Rockies.

And going on from the terminals, it keeps the flow of commerce moving, and waterways as it enters the field of international commerce. It means food for the people of the United Kingdom, and the people of the United States, and the people of the world.

The story of what happens to this wheat from the time it is harvested on the prairies until it finds its way to the consumer is a story of the carrying of it to the head of ocean navigation, and the most interesting one.

bag on the car door. The car sealer follows, seals the car, collects the sample bags and takes them to the government office in the railway yard. The numbers of the tickets are there checked with the sheets made out from the waybills, by the government clerk, and the samples and sheets are then sent to the inspection office.

Grain is graded, according to its quality (counting color, weight, etc.), condition (moisture and heat), and admixture (weeds, dirt, etc.). There are mechanical tests to determine the moisture test, the sieve and the scale—and every precaution is taken to secure fair and just grading. When the inspection is finished the samples and tickets are stored to be retained as long as the grain is in the elevator.

The inspector does not know who owns the grain. He grades from the samples only at the head of the lake. The inspector does not know who owns the grain. He grades from the samples only at the head of the lake.

The grain thus leaves Winnipeg, classified and graded by officials of the Canadian Government, the inspection being done at Winnipeg, while the storage plant is 450 miles from the head of the lake. The grain is then shipped to the head of the lake, where it reaches the terminal elevators.

At the arrival of the grain at Fort William, another set of government officials take hold of it. All the grain is weighed, cleaned, and recorded. The depth of grain in the car is measured. The unloading, the weighing, the cleaning, the recording, and the shipping are all supervised.

Government certificates of weight and grade are given to the farmer, and the grain goes out of the terminals are issued. Warehouse receipts are registered, and the grain is then shipped to the head of the lake.

There are 13 terminal elevators in Fort William and Fort Arthur, with a total capacity of 41,500,000 bushels. Not less than $200,000,000 of capital is invested in the elevators, and the plants. They are modern in every respect. It is not too much to say that the elevators are the most efficient, dispatch and accuracy in grain handling.

A farmer's wagon can haul about 60 bushels of wheat, a rail car about 1,200 bushels; a whole grain train from 50,000 to 60,000 bushels; and a ship from 100,000 to 300,000 bushels. One of these large boats can be loaded by a modern terminal elevator in a matter of hours.

Ask For BUSINESS

Only one's most intimate friends go to one's home uninvited, and the extent of one's calling list is determined by the number of one's calls

In business the same facts hold. Every merchant in this town knows scores of families here and in the country round about, whose custom he does not possess. Mutual acquaintance is the first step towards getting these families as customers, and acquaintances can most surely be developed by invitations or calls made through the medium of advertising in the Blairmore Weekly Enterprise.

To The Merchants

Show your desire for business by asking for it. A merchant who does not ask for business is supposed not to want it very keenly.
